Cordially invite you to:

The Latin American Congress of Social and Environmental Sciences Warsaw, June 16-19, 2025

The event will be held under the title

"Towards Environmental and Spatial Justice:
The Role of Geography and Territorial Planning"
and will incorporate the XXIV Polish-Mexican Symposium and the V Polish-Colombian Symposium.

With the event its organizers aim at resuming the tradition of large-scale meetings in Central Europe to share knowledge about advances in social and environmental sciences. We look forward to your presence, to share knowledge in these fields, especially thanks to new experiences and new lines of research.

Main thematic axes:

1. Wealth of resources and the perspective of the benefits of their use: any conflict,
2. Divided societies: structures and internal relationships, and their spatial representation,
3. Authorities versus citizens' needs and expectations: strategies and actions, both overt and covert,
4. Lost, hidden, and marginalized societies: their rootedness in the territory,
5. Mechanisms, tools, and technologies to support local and regional development,
6. Alternative development and alternatives to development,
7. Territorial justice paradigm versus competition for rent – local and global agents,
8. Environmental migration.

While these thematic axes guide our discussions, we also welcome your suggestions on a wide range of topics related to social, environmental, and Latin American studies. The call for proposals is open for thematic panels, presentations, workshops, book or journal presentations, round tables, and other academic activities.

The Congress will be held in the building of the Faculty of Geography and Regional Studies of the University of Warsaw, Poland.
